TEXARKANA QUIET AFTER LYNCHING OF NEGRO BY MOB

CHARGED WITH THE FATAL SHOOTING OF POLICEMAN CHOATE.

REMOVED FROM JAIL ON THE ARKANSAS SIDE

Had Been Arrested On Tuesday Night On a Charge of Theft Of Auto Supplies.

TEXARKANA, ARK., May 20—This city was quiet today following the lynching last night of Hallie Owens, negro, by a mob who took him from the Miller county, Arkansas, jail, where he had been confined following the fatal shooting of R. C. Choate, policeman. Authorities have made no announcement concerning what steps will be taken toward investigating the lynching

Owens has been arrested Thursday night and placed in jail on a charge of theft. Yesterday afternoon he told Choate and Chief of Police Lummus that if they would release him he would show them where he had concealed stolen automobile appliances. Taking him at his word the officers accompanied him to an alley where he rummaged in a trash receptacle and suddenly pulled out a gun.

Chief Lummus drew his gun and shot Owens in the face. The negro fled for three blocks with the officers in close pursuit. He hopped aboard an automobile and when Choate attempted to prevent his escape, the fugitive fired on him, six shots entering his abdomen resulting in Choate's death 30 minutes later.

Despite his wound from Lummus' gun Owens managed to make his getaway in the automobile, driving to a point about a mile from the city where he abandoned the car and fled into the woods. Apparently fearing capture by Lummus who, reinforced by other officers, was in hot pursuit, Owens attempted to drown himself in a pool. He was dragged from the water by Sheriff John Strange of Miller county.

Crowds gathered around the hospital while his injury was being dressed. Officers succeeded in getting him safely to the jail but at about 8:30 o'clock a mob estimated at 1,000 stormed the structure, breaking down the heavy door with an iron battering ram and despite the remonstrance of officers, dragged the wounded negro from his cot with a rope.

Owens was taken to Offenhauser park, in the heart of the city and his body riddled with bullets. The mutilated corpse then was dragged to an open space near the union depot where a large quantity of kerosene soaked fuel was ignited. The body was thrown on the fire and in a short time burned to a crisp.

Gather Evidence In The Valentino Case; Inquiry Discouraged

LOS ANGELES, May 20—A report that Rudolph Valentino, film actor, and Winifred Hudnut, motion picture art director, known professionally as Natacha Rambova, occupied a room at a hotel at Palm Springs, Calif., after their marriage a week ago at Mexicali, Lower California, was in the district attorney's office here today.

It was forwarded by two Los Angeles detectives sent to gather evidence bearing on the case along the Mexican border, so that the authorities here could determine whether to prosecute Valentino for bigamy because he remarried within less than a year after obtaining an interlocutory decree of divorce January 10, last, from Jean Acker, screen actress.

The detectives declared they had located at Indio, Cal., five witnesses who would testify to the appearance of Valentino and Miss Hudnut at the Palm Springs hotel.

It has been previously stated that if sufficient evidence was obtained to prove that after the marriage in Mexicali the film actor brought his bride back into California bigamy proceedings would be instituted.

The detectives were expected to visit El Centro, Cal., and Mexicali, Lower California, also, in their inquiry and it was believed possible they might make a further report today.

Valentino's attorneys have announced he was ready at any time to talk to the district attorney.

Miss Hudnut is on the way to New York.

Miss Acker made her third engagement to appear at the district attorney's office today.

Tom McClelland, deputy district attorney, stated he had received a visit from representatives of motion picture interests who had attempted to discourage prosecution of Valentino but he had told them that if the law had been broken prosecution must follow.

LONDON PARTISANS PREPARE WELCOME FOR LLOYD GEORGE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, May 20,—There is every prospect that the public welcome organized for Premier Lloyd George on his arrival from Genoa tonight will be memorable. It will, however, apparently be a partisan and not a national welcome.

The days of solid support for Lloyd George vanished soon after the war and he has long since reverted to the position of a political leader.

Today's editorials on the break up of the conference are significant as bearing upon the premier's position On one hand he is adversely criticized for his farewell address at Genoa and on the other part for his public conduct there and on the other hand he is praised for his courage and resourcefulness in the face of immense difficulties and for what his admirers term his considerable achievements, even though they fell short of his aims.

As for the conference itself, even its strongest apologists do not claim that it has been a success, but look toward the coming together at The Hague for a sequel of real value Its enemies have hardly a good word for it and especially those which from the first opposed admission of the soviet delegates to the council table. They pronounce it a dismal failure and welcome its end

It calls on public officials who are members of the klan to repudiate it openly or suffer removal from office and it makes a specific charge that the klan is political in character.

REMAND FLETCHER WITHOUT BOND ON CHARGE OF MURDER

SAYLOR ESTATE VALUED AT $50,000 WITNESS SAYS AT ARCHER HEARING.

GASOLINE CAN TOP HAD BEEN UNSCREWED

Several Circumstances Brought Out By State; Defendant to Seek Habeas Corpus.

ARCHER CITY, TEXAS, May 20—Circumstances, as yet unexplained, in connection with the deaths on May 5 of William Saylor and his daughter, Suna Taylor, resulted late Friday in Bob Fletcher, Saylor's son in law, being remanded to jail without bond on a charge of murder

Fletcher was remanded by County Judge Alexander after the state had presented testimony developing several facts in connection with the case. Among these facts are

Fletcher's coat, apparently saturated with gasoline, was found in the water under the bridge where the Saylor car was wrecked

The body of Suna Taylor was found on the right hand side of the front seat, although she was driving at the time of the wreck.

The cap to the gasoline can the igniting of which Fletcher claims caused the death of his father in law and sister in law, was found in another part of the car, having been unscrewed.

Screams were heard by farmers in the vicinity of the scene, although Fletcher stated that neither of the victims uttered a sound after the car ran off the bridge

The Saylor estate, in which Fletcher would share, is valued at about $50,000

There is considerable feeling on both sides of the case Friends and neighbors of Fletcher crowded around him after he had been remanded, expressing their belief in his innocence, some of them crying as they shook hands with him

Fletcher did not testify at Friday's hearing. His 240-pound frame remained drooped in his chair throughout the evening, and his hands worked nervously all the time. His wife, Saylor's daughter, sat by his side

Martin, O'Neal and Allred of Wichita Falls represented Fletcher, while Judge H. F. Weldon, C C McDonald and County Attorney Morrison represented the state.

The defense announced after the hearing that habeas corpus proceedings would be instituted at once District court will not be in session here until next October.

Henry Harrison, Fletcher's neighbor, testified as to a conversation with Fletcher about 24 hours after the tragedy, Fletcher being in bed at the time from the injuries which he received. The story told by Fletcher at that time was substantially the same as was published in The Times, being that he had gotten out of the car to catch a young dog that had jumped from the machine; that Miss Saylor, while looking back to see if he had caught the dog, allowed the car to roll off the bridge; that he ran to the car and after trying vainly to remove its two occupants, and then struck a match, whereupon the gasoline ignited,

Fletcher told him, Harrison said, that neither of the occupants spoke after the accident. The car remained upright in the water after its six-foot drop. When he tried to remove the girl, Fletcher had said, he thought he heard her dress tear as if caught on something, then he struck the match. Fletcher had also told him, Harrison testified, that he thought he heard the girl moan

J. A. Morbitzer, residing about half a mile from the scene, testified to hearing a "crack" like a tire blowing out, but said it did not sound like the report of a weapon He heard a noise which he thought was a wildcat screaming, it was not a man screaming, witness said

Joe Moore, to whose house, over a mile from the bridge, Fletcher ran after the accident, testified to Fletcher's actions and appearance, which were such as to make the witness think a crazy man was at large He and Mrs. Moore fled, he testified and on returning later with help, found the back door open and the glass in the front door broken out.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Huffman of Scotland testified to finding the bodies He expressed the belief that the Saylors died as the result of an accident. He testified as to the position of the bodies of the Saylors

County Tax Collector McDonald testified that in his opinion the Saylor estate was worth about $50,000

BEARS LAMBAST FINCHER AND BLANK SPUDDERS IN FINAL GAME OF SERIES

By PAUL W. LARKIN.

The Spudders bade farewell to Wichita Falls fans Friday afternoon at Athletic Park in a most unbecoming manner, while Bill Fincher made his debut in a Spudder uniform in a like manner. It was a most humiliating defeat sustained by Salm's hopefuls this year they failed to cross the platter while the Bears piled up a total of nine. The locals never had a chance with the veteran Bob Couchman on the hill. Bob used to be "duck soup" for the Salmites, but he either had a world of stuff Friday or the Spudders' collective batting eye was sadly dimmed. Only three safeties were garnered off his delivery — a slashing triple by "Shorty" Adams, a hard double by McDonald and a one-base smash by Jake Miller. Miller was the only Spudder, with the exception of Adams, who saw the light of day at third base. Tex belted out his two-play wallop before the second man had been retired, but he remained anchored at second while the following batters skied to Lee. For five innings the contest was as pretty a hurling duel as one would care to witness. Both Fincher and Couchman were bending their offerings around the opposing batters' furniture in masterly fashion. Fuller's triple and Hiller's single gave the visitors their first tally in the second, but from that point until the sixth Fincher ran things to suit himself. The Salmites, on the other hand, were held in complete subjection by Couchman. Adams' triple in the opening session came with two down and he was unable to push him over. The only other man to be left on base in the first five rounds was Miller, who was also left stranded at third.

The grand crash came in the sixth when Fincher received a lacing that has not been duplicated at the local ball yard this year in such a short space of time. The Bears pounced down on him with a vengeance, scoring four runs before Joe Ruth went in and stopped the slaughter.

The Bear Onslaughts

Fincher had trouble locating the plate for Kirkham and he served up four wide ones. Booe lined a double to right center for two bases and Kirkham counted. Frank Fuller, though he already had one triple to his credit for the day's work, smote another one between Miller and Summa and Booe counted. Hiller followed with a terrific clout over the left field barrier which brought the total up to four. Beatty kept the apple rolling by cracking a single to center and Henry followed with a hard smash through Beck which White recovered in time to get the runner at first. Fincher finally gave way under the bombardment and Ruth assumed the task of stopping the invaders. He got through this round admirably by forcing Couchman and forcing Lee to ground to White.

Knowing the Spudders' habit of caving out in the last stages of a game no matter how many runs spotted their opponents, the fans still thought there was a chance until the eighth when the Bears chased four more over. McDonald started the fireworks when he went into Adams' section of the lot and dropped Fuller's easy fly. Fuller promptly stole second and after Hiller had skied to Summa went to third when Ruth threw to second to catch him napping. Beatty slammed a double to the left field corner scoring Fuller. Henry walked. Couchman made it three away by lofting to Beacher but Lee hit safely to center and Beatty scored. Henry went to third on the blow and scored on a double steal with Lee. Gross sent the fourth run over by singling to center with Lee on second. Kirkham fled out to Kitchens.

The fielding of the two second basemen was worthy of note. Both Fuller and White had exceptionally good days, each handling eight difficult chances perfectly. Fuller grabbed the slugging honors of the day with his two triples.

THE RIVALS AT BAT

BABE RUTH KEN WILLIAMS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Babe Ruth, his mightiest war club polished for a belated home run drive, was ready today to come back into the fold. Formal notice of the big slugger's reinstatement came today from Commissioner Landis. Similar action came in the case of Bob Meusel, hard hitting teammate of Ruth, who was suspended under the same conditions as Ruth for last fall's illegal barnstorming trip.

Early rush for the turnstiles that rivalled world series day and a sell out of reserved seats occurred at the Polo Grounds. But even the presence of the Babe could not dim the lustre of other attractions for the occasion—the St. Louis Browns, generally considered the Yankee's most dangerous rivals, and their sluging sensation, Ken Williams.

Williams with an early start on Ruth has eleven home runs to his credit, a substantial margin even in a race with so formidable an opponent as the bambino. The Yank star has not given up his ambition to beat the record of fifty-nine he set last season.

Off Again

Gone for 13 days to play 14 games.

Let's Be Optimistic

The boys didn't leave the fans with a pleasant taste in their mouths, but maybe they've got their bad baseball out of their systems. Let's hope so.

The First Test

The fans will now be able to ascertain what sort of road club the Panthers have. The Spudders are probably as strong now as they will be any time this season. Walter has his hurling staff just about where he wants it

They're in Again

The wolves cut loose at Athletic park Friday. The wolves and the two-bit gamblers. The expression "two-bit gamblers" is used as advisedly as it may not have been them, but it is hardly possible that a real baseball fan would act as some of the bugs did

Fans "Ride" Kitchens.

Though entirely uncalled for, Frank Kitchens suffered the worst "rassing" and "riding" of his career in the final Santone game. And to think that it was in his home town. Why such an attitude should be adopted towards one of the most faithful and conscientious ball players who ever donned a uniform is inexplicable. Frank isn't as fast as he was once upon a time, but he still has the same old "wise" head, a dependable arm and a keen batting eye. What catcher doesn't have an off day? What player doesn't? What man in any line doesn't? Frank doesn't have many of them, though he has gotten away to a poor start this season. Could anything have been worse than Bischoff's exhibition behind the plate the day before—or at the plate? He, too had an off day as they all do. Kitchens didn't have an off day by any means Friday. Many fans do not realize the number of wild pitches he prevented behind the plate. He hit the ball as hard as any of them. His pegging was not all that could be desired, but he'll turn back as many base runners this season in proportion to the number who attempt to go down as any backstop. And with it all, Frank was a sick man behind the plate. After the game was over, the umpires said "the fans can ride Kitchens all they want to, but we notice the difference in the rest of the squad when he's doing the receiving."

The "Razzers."

To say that a player is made of such stern stuff that the riding doesn't nettle him is foolishness. It's bound to. 'Kitch came back at the stands and was justified in it. It's seldom that a player in his home town is forced to come back at the fans, who should be with him. But it was necessary yesterday. There are a number of "wise guys" who attend ball games in every city. They know more than the manager and the players (in their own estimation) and think because they pay their admission it is their right to roast the players upon the slightest provocation. They even figure they can "ride" a man with no provocation at all. The majority are those who have a couple of dollars wagered on the game and take delight in rooting against the home club. They seem to take delight in making life miserable for the players. They will turn up no matter what means are taken to guard against them though it would be a good thing for the fair minded fans and the game if they could be spotted and led to the gate where their admission would be refunded

He'll Be in There.

Frank Kitchens will be in there next September unless he breaks a leg or some other member in the meantime. With the possible exception of Fort Worth, there isn't a club in the Texas league that wouldn't jump at the chance to land him. The fans who believe that they are going to "ride" Kitchens out of a job are sadly mistaken. However, they are apt to "ride" Bischoff out of a job by their tactics. Frank isn't worried a bit about his position and the reception that he was accorded when he toed the platter the last time was ample proof that the majority of the fans are with him.

RUTH AND MEUSEL ARE GRANTED REINSTATEMENT BY COMMISSIONER LANDIS

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 20.—Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel of the New York Yankees were reinstated by Commissioner Landis today.

The home run king is eligible to start his drive for 1922 slug honors in this afternoon's game with the St. Louis Browns at New York.

The telegram from Ruth and Meusel was received at the commissioner's office about 8 50 a. m. The judge was not there but his secretary, Leslie O'Conner had received his instruction last night and promptly sent telegrams to Ruth and Meusel reading as follows

"Your reinstatement application granted, effective immediately.

(Signed) "K. M. Landis"

A third telegram was sent Umpires Chill and Owens reading.

"Ruth and Meusel reinstated effective immediately. Eligible for today's game.

(Signed) "K M Landis"

The applications for reinstatement of Ruth and Meusel were identical. They read as follows

I hereby respectfully apply for immediate reinstatement, to enable me to play in the game here today, Saturday, May 20"

Bill Piercy, former Yankee, now of the Boston Red Sox, also applied for reinstatement. Piercy's telegram follows.

"I hereby make application for reinstatement to enable me to pitch a game today, May 20. Kindly wire

The three were suspended last fall when they violated the major league rule by playing post-season games. This rule has been in effect for some time and as a result of the Ruth case there has been considerable talk of changing it

The rule was not made by Judge Landis, his action being simply the enforcement of an already existing law.

Here's an Umpire Who Is a Box Office Attraction

Harry Johnson is one umpire who is a box office attraction. Johnson is the most important figure in the South Atlantic league and the baseball idol of Dixieland.

Johnson has been in the International league and umpired here and there, but his place is down in Dixie.

There is a certain histrionic gift in Johnson. Whenever he umpires the fact is widely advertised and he is a big gate card. He receives the highest salary paid an official in his class league. More people will go out to see Johnson umpire than will come to the ball park to watch any individual player

Johnson is singular in his ways. There is not another umpire like him. He talks throughout the game and addresses remarks to the players, to the fans, to everybody in general

When he steps on the playing field he vigorously brushes off the home plate. Then he vigorously dusts of the pitching rubber. He walks to the players' benches and addresses the athletes in this manner

"Now, boys, a lot of 'pep' today. Fight 'em, fight 'em, fight 'em"

He emphasizes his remarks by waving his arms with much zest. In this act he resembles a college cheer leader

When Johnson announces the batteries he spells the name of pitcher and catcher of each team. He always spells the name of a pinch batsman or a substitute fielder

The fans call him "Steamboat." His voice is penetrating and he emphasizes everything. He has vocal range and when he reaches the high pitch of oratory one readily understands why they nicknamed him "Steamboat"

No umpire "calls 'em" as the "Steamboat" does. For instance, when the count is two and two or three and two, Johnson shouts "Two and two amen," or "Three and two amen."

Doesn't Wave 'Em.

When the runner is out Johnson is not content with merely waving him out, but he yells a few lines such as "You're a dead bird" "He had you my man." "Not this time but maybe the next," "You lose that one by two steps," "The ball beat you," "He tagged you on the ankle sliding in," "You didn't get there soon enough" "Rather close but I got to give it against you, Mr Baserunner"

These are just a few sample lines picked at random. The "Steamboat" has a long and varied list of lines.

He hustles himself and he hurries the players. You catch these remarks in any remote corner of the ball lot where the "Steamboat" is working:

"Now, my bonnie lads, a little more of the old ginger."

"Come, boys, supper is awaiting the loyal fans"

"You will have to play faster. Speed is a feature of the grand old national pastime."

"Shake a leg, my man, for the pitcher is ready to throw.

"Come on, come on. You can't get any hits standing ten feet from the plate"

"Grab a bat and hustle to me, Mr. Batsman, for time is valuable"

"The game is dragging, boys. You have lot the old pepper. Spruce up with a little of the good old ambish"

It would never be tolerated in the major leagues, but down in Dixie they idolize the "Steamboat."

MILLER LOOMS UP AS POSSIBLE RIVAL

Athletic Slugger May Make Home Run Race a Three-Cornered Affair.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Ed "Bing" Miller of the Philadelphia Athletics may make it a three cornered race with Ruth and Kenneth Williams of St. Louis for home run hitting honors this season. Miller clouted out a brace of homers yesterday, the second time he has collected two in an afternoon and increased his string to eight, but the White Sox checked Mack's winning streak, winning 7 4

The Chicagoans drove the Athletic star hurler, Ed Rommell, from the box while Charley Robertson, although hit hard, kept the blows fairly well scattered

Frank Baker added another four base blow to his string while the Yankees were batting Sothoren, Bagby and Mails, Cleveland dropping its sixth straight 12-4

A pitching duel between Francis and Oldham ended in the tenth when Rigney's error let Washington score the deciding run against Detroit and won 3 2

Brooklyn hit Bill Doak, the Cardinals' pitching ace for 15 safe blows but failed to make them count and St Louis won 10-6. Rogers Hornsby gathered his seventh homer of the season

In the only other National league game, Couch held Philadelphia safe while Cincinnati hit Ring and Winters hard, winning easily 9-1.

DEMPSEY WILL NOT FIGHT HARRY WILLS

Says He Won't Enter Ring Until Labor Day; Confirms Report Of Impending Marriage.

NEW YORK, May 19.—With plans for the future indefinite but asserting positively that he will not fight until Labor day, at least, world champion Jack Dempsey, king of the heavyweights, returned on the Aquitania yesterday, radiating happiness to be home. Dempsey will remain here one or two days and then hustle to Los Angeles to visit his mother

Before the ship docked both the champion and his manager, Jack Kearns spiked the suggested bout with Harry Wills negro challenger, proposed by Tex Rickard and Frank Flournoy for July 1 at Montreal

Jack Dempsey tonight authorized the announcement of his impending marriage to Miss Edith Rockwell of Boulder, Colorado

The champion appeared rather haughty with a monocle screwed into his right eye and a checked cap pulled cockily to one side of his head when he returned from Europe today, and he did not have much to say.

Then tonight bashfully he told his friends that his secretary, Teddie Hayes had something to tell them

"He's to be married," announced Hayes

Jack grinned and confirmed the statement

The wedding date has not been set

"Some time before Christmas," Jack said

FUTURE MOVIES.

In 10 years the motion picture will rival grand opera as an artistic production.

This is the prophecy, not by the ghost of Bill Nye talking over the ouija board, but by Samuel L. Rothafel, celebrated designer and director of the Capitol theater in New York.

If Rothafel is right, the movies have a long way to go and it will have to be at a fast clip.

The movies, however, come in for a lot of unjust criticism. Critics forget that the motion picture is a baby among the various kinds of theatrical entertainments.

It took thousands of years for the legitimate stage to develop modern scenic effects. Even in Shakespeare's day, scenery consisted of a bare stage with signs like: "This is a forest," or "This is a street in Rome."

The movies are like everything else. Americans expect a new device to be perfected the day after it is invented.

Do you remember the movies, back before the days of John Bunny? Compared with the present, they were mechanical freights.

Movie photography has become an art.

The badly-ventilated vacant storeroom in which movies were exhibited 10 years ago has developed into an art-palace.

The best of modern movie acting, too, is an art alongside the crude shadowland acting of a decade ago.

The only real fault in the movies is that they tell the wrong stories—often stupid or asinine. Time will change that.

Rothafel has a golden dream of future movies. He believes movie theaters will be shaped like an egg, the pictures made realistic by a fusion of colors, high-grade music, magic lighting effects, the characters "talking" their lines, with sounds and even odors reproduced to complete the hypnotic state of the audience.

Rothafel even predicts that movie theaters will be endowed by national, state and city governments, like the endowed theaters of ancient Greece.

In the background, however, is the possibility that 10 years from now movie theaters may be closed, with the finest movies broadcasted by wireless to the humblest homes.

In that case, you wonder, who would pay the actors? It would be the same process as the future of radio music. The finest of vocal and instrumental talent will undoubtedly be employed by the radio industry as a free inducement to further the sales of their instruments.

7 SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AWARDED AT COMMENCEMENT

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED FRIDAY NIGHT TO 112 HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES.

JUDGE W. F. RAMSEY OF DALLAS IS SPEAKER

Louise Wick and Frank Carter Receive University's Rewards For High Averages.

The final and in all respects the most propossessing scene in their entire four year drama of high school life was enacted for 112 senior graduates of the local institution Friday night. Exercises thoroughly in keeping with the importance of the occasion served to make the 1922 commencement one of impressing dignity and one that fittingly climaxed the achievements of the largest graduating class in the history of the school.

Long before the curtain rose to reveal the seniors, capped and growned, seated on the stage, the Wichita theater was jammed from front to rear. The lower floor, balcony and even the second balcony were packed with relatives and friends of those who were ending up their scholastic affiliation with Wichita Falls schools. And it was an admiring and enthusiastic crowd that applauded the curtain's rise, that remained silent during the invocation by Rev. J. W. Loving, that applauded again when the school glee club had finished its well rendered "Coronation March" and that settled back quietly when the principal speaker of the evening, Judge W. F. Ramsey of Dallas, was introduced by Judge Carrigan.

A warm tribute to Superintendent of Schools Clark and the extension of congratulations to the graduates predicated Judge Ramsey's comments on the fact that only 42 of the 112 seniors were boys.

"This is nothing to be alarmed about," he said, "in fact, it speaks well for the young men of the city when this number can resist the many inducements to leave school and remain to carry their work to a successful conclusion. The young ladies have always outstripped the boys, numerically, and they, too, are to be congratulated. It is a proud day for any girl or boy when they have completed a high school career in Texas."

The speaker then traced the foundation of the Texas educational system, dwelt in some detail on its expansion and then referred to the recent school bond issue voted here for a new high school and junior college building. He mentioned, incidentally, that no investment would pay greater dividends than that of an investment in public schools.

A plea for more and deeper patriotism and greater attention to the history of the state and nation was voiced by Judge Ramsey in the latter part of his address. He outlined the extent of patriotic fervor in the south, as evidenced years ago at a New Orleans Mardi Gras and also as evidenced later at the Chicago World's Fair.

"Why should there ever have been and why should there ever be again a distinction between north and south, east and west, when we of this country speak the same language, worship the same God and have the same ideals and aspirations," inquired the speaker. "Study our country, forget that 'party lines' exist," he continued, "and be thoroughly American."

The usual admonition to take up still other study and a warning to the graduates that they were just now "in the morning of their lives, with all its possibilities and opportunities for good" and the declaration that the early training of a child determined in large measure its after life came just before the close of the talk, which Judge Ramsey chose to make in the personal vein.

"To you," he said, "I submit the fact that I have tried to follow the teachings of my Christian mother and that I have tried to be true to the high ideals and lofty aims instilled in me by our great schools. And for you I wish nothing better."

A pleasing rendition of "The Anvil Chorus" by the high school orchestra followed the talk by Judge Ramsey and then Judge A. H. Carrigan, president of the school board, presented diplomas. In his introductory remarks, he paid a glowing tribute to Lee Clark, superintendent of the Wichita Falls schools, who has endeared himself to all those who have had the best interests of the school at heart. To Mr. Clark mucl of the credit for the high standard now maintained by the school system was given.

The school board president paid tribute to the teaching force, to the mothers clubs and to the other organizations that had unselfishly worked in behalf of the educational institutions. To the local newspapers for their constant advocacy of bigger and better schools and to the banks of the city which, the speaker said, had on numerous occasions come to the financial aid of the school board, he also referred.

The presentation of diplomas, executed with dispatch and to the accompaniment of constant applause, was succeeded by one of the big surprises of the evening—an event not listed on the program and one which was unknown to the school authorities until late Friday afternoon.

The awarding of scholarships in the University of Texas to Louise Scott, Stella Winters and Francis Jones, three girls who represented the local school in the state interscholastic meet at Austin a few weeks ago, constituted a most unexpected but welcome digression from the printed program. Neither Miss Scott, who represented the school in the senior girls declamation, nor Miss Winters and Miss Jones who made up the girls debating team were awarded a first place at the Austin meet, but their excellent work impressed state university authorities so favorably that all three were given scholarships. The awards were made by S. H. Rider, principal of the high school.

Sam Bashara, small brother of Joe Bashara, accepted from J. Wilkie Talbert, the extemporaneous speaking medal won by Joe in a recent contest at the high school. The winner was not present Friday night, having gone to Amarillo with the school baseball team, but his brother, who has gained a considerable reputation as a speaker and declaimer himself, acted in his behalf.

To Louise Wick and Frank Carter were given the university scholarships for having established the best scholastic record of any of the senior class. Miss Wick averaged 94.75 in her four year work, while Carter's average was 92.76. Superintenednt Clark made the awards, which entitle the recipients to a complete course in any one of a score or more of universities or colleges throughout the south. The list from which they might choose was read by Mr. Clark.

Two other scholarships, making seven awarded during the evening, went to Will McClure and Harold Naylor for having attained the rank of Eagle scout in the Boy Scouts of America. These awards were made by Major W. L. Culberson, representing the local scout council, who said that the two winners might select any school in the United States as the scene of their later studies. All fees are paid by the national scout board.

The final surprise of the evening came when Miss Jennie Splawn, faculty advisor who directed the task of publishing the Coyote, senior year book, was dragged reluctantly to the center of the stage and presented with a handsome silver wrist watch as a token of appreciation from the Coyote staff. The gift was given by Edward Ledane, president of the class, who spoke briefly and appropriately of the splendid work Miss Splawn had done in behalf of the class.

Rev. T. S. Pittinger pronounced the benediction and then the seniors, full fledged graduates and with four years of high school work behind them, repaired to the William and Mary hotel where the last official event to be sponsored by the class—the farewell banquet, was held. Happy indeed was the occasion, and though tinged with regret that it was their final gathering as a class, the dinner did not lack for fun and frolic.

It was midnight when, with the last toast given, the party broke up and the class of 1922 was history.

W. O. WINSTON GIVES DINNER TO EMPLOYES OF STORE FRIDAY EVENING

Friday evening at 7:30 W. O. Winston, of Winston's Department store, entertained his employes with an informal dinner at the Kemp hotel. Every employe was present and as all formalities were dispensed with the dinner was very much like a large family gathering.

After a dinner of several courses matters of interest to those present were discussed. A co-operative club was formed, whose purpose is to deal with problems that arise in the different departments. It was agreed that each department should have the right to suggest improvements in the service of other departments and that this club should frequently meet to consider and discuss questions that should arise during time of business. Every one present pledged their hearty support to the organization and its purpose.

B. F. Liggett, local representative for the National Cash Register company, gave a talk on "Salesmanship," which was very much appreciated by every one present. Mr. Liggett gave many points on selling and showed them the part psychology plays in successful salesmanship.

There were several interesting and instructive talks given by Mr. Winston and the managers of the different departments.

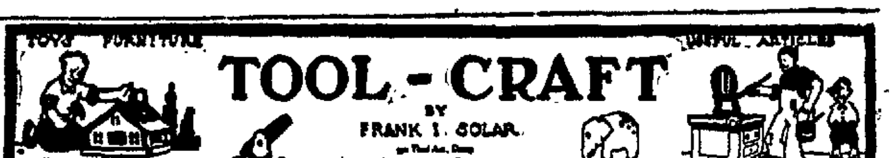
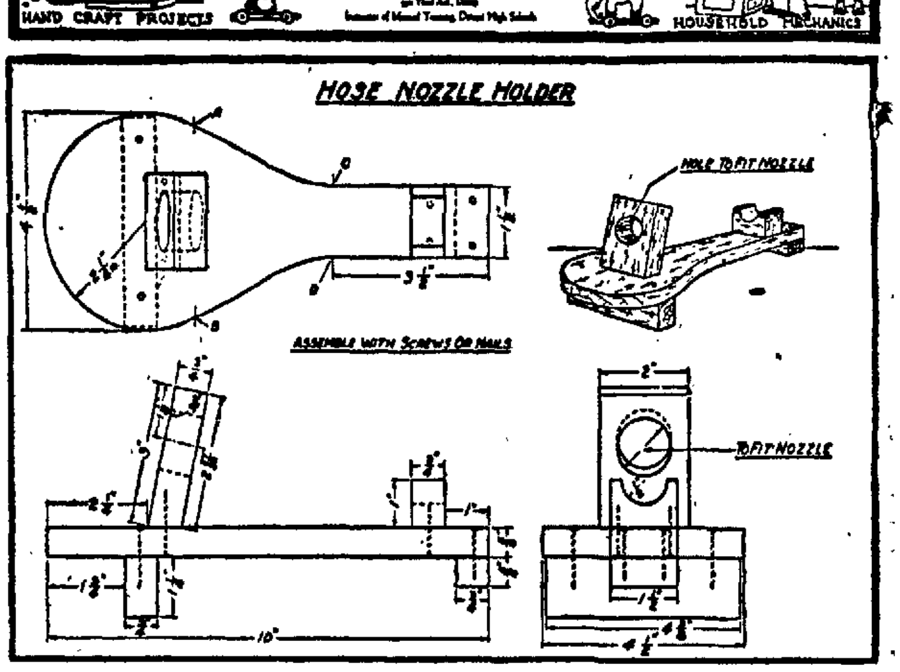
TOOL-CRAFT



BY FRANK I. SOLAR.



AND HERE'S HOW YOU MAKE IT

Of all the handy things you can construct there is none more handy, I believe, than the hose-nozzle holder described here this week. It may be set upon the porch post, the sidewalk, or the lawn, to support the hose while sprinkling the lawn, foliage or garden with a fine spray, thus making it unnecessary for you to stand and hold the nozzle.

The tools required for the making of the holder are a plane, saw, hammer, screw driver, coping or turning saw, and a brace and bit.

Lay out the outline for the bed of the holder, using a pencil compass, pencil and rule. Use the compass for making the large curve. Make the curves between A and C free hand.

Make fast for the bottom of the bed and fasten them in place with nails or screws.

The supports for the hose are easily made and should be fastened to the top of the bed with either nails or screws.

Give the holder, when it has been assembled, several coats of paint. It will be continually soaked with water and needs the paint for protection.

100 GALLONS CORN SWALLOWED BY BIG MOUTH OF SEWER

TWO 50-GALLON BARRELS ARE FOUND UNDER HOUSE ON SEVENTH STREET.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN ARE UNDER ARREST

Liquor Had Begun to Take Color From Oaken Coca Cola Barrels.

While the salivary glands of 20 prisoners in the county jail worked overtime Saturday morning, 100 gallons of corn whiskey that beaded perfectly was swallowed by the large open mouth of the sewer. Sheriff Fred K. Smith officiated at the pouring out.

Saturday morning Sheriff Smith and Special Officer George Hawkins made a search of a house on Seventh street and found two 50 gallon barrels of liquor buried under the house. Two men and a woman were arrested and charges in federal court were preferred against them.

Three quarts of the liquor were taken from each of the barrels for evidence. Just how long the whiskey had been buried there is hard to tell but it had begun to color. The barrels were made of oak and both bore soft drink syrup labels.

Officers who smelled and tasted the whiskey stated that it was of a high grade and that within another six months it would have taken on enough color to make it give the appearance of real bottled in bond. In six months, just about Christmas time, the contents of the two barrels would have been worth not less than $5,000 to the owners.

But the small fortune now is floating merrily down the Big Wichita.

The union meeting of Fort Worth, Dallas and Wichita Falls Truth Centers, including Unity and New Thought, begins Sunday evening, 7:45, in the basement of the Jewish temple with Mrs. Hortenstein as the speaker. Other speakers will talk Monday and Tuesday, 10:00 to 12:00 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., at the Jewish temple, which will show the way to gain the mastery and how to pray aright that your prayers will be answered. Open for healing ministry. Every afternoon. 6585. All are welcome. 7-1tp

DIE-HARD SENATORS ARE WEAKENING ON ISOLATION PROGRAM

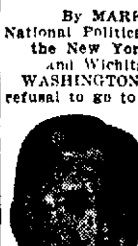
EVEN LODGE NOT SUCH AN IRRECONCILABLE AS IN LEAGUE FIGHT.

PARTY LEADERS TAKING MORE LIBERAL VIEW

Coming Around to Theory That America Should Do Something to Aid Europe.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Hughes' refusal to go to The Hague did not excite much surprise or disapproval, even among those who are most critical of the administration's European policy as a whole. To get mixed up with the dregs of the failure of the Genoa conference after America had declined to participate in its beginnings would have been illogical. To attempt to accomplish anything under the handicap of the animosities that have now become attached to Genoa, and after nearly all the nations have taken fixed positions one way or the other, would have been foolish.



SULLIVAN.

But if there is overwhelming assent to this action, there is equally general belief that the time is at hand for America to take a new and affirmative step without Europe, to wipe the table clear of the debris of Genoa and all the other failures and make a fresh start with the United States leading the way.

This feeling is not confined to the old league of nations advocates. It is almost general. It is held strongly even by some republican leaders who put the fortunes of the Harding administration above everything in Europe, but who now feel that a too prolonged continuance of the "out of Europe" policy will do serious damage to Harding's prestige.

That prestige rests on confidence in Harding's personal reputation for good faith as much as on any other factor. And if Harding has meant anything by his repeated declarations about an association of nations and about being helpful to Europe, now is the time to make good on them.

Europe has tried everything she can devise and has failed. America can lay down a program and Europe is in a mood to accept it. Moreover, the opportunity may not last long. From now on everything that happens contains some possibility of limiting America's capacity to do the things that America ought to do and should want to do. Moreover, such things that may happen might embarrass America seriously.

If the nations of western Europe should get together and agree on some sort of recognition of Russia, omitting America, Americans might have to do some quick thinking to know what to do about it. Everybody realizes these things. Nobody doubts that Harding is willing to act whenever the conditions are right.

The only restraining influence is fear of the irreconcilable republican senators. And it is not fear of all of them. The irreconcilable republican senators include two groups. One group consists roughly of Borah, LaFollette and Johnson. But fear of these does not trouble the republican leaders much. These senators are not looked upon as orthodox republicans.

The real restraint comes from the other group of republican irreconcilables, men like Brandegee of Connecticut, and McCormick of Illinois. These men, and especially Brandegee, are suspicious of Europe, as they ever were. Aside from these two most of the other irreconcilables among the orthodox republican senators have calmed down in their feelings. It is doubtful if even Lodge is still to be regarded as an irreconcilable in the same sense as McCormick and Brandegee are.

If Harding should determine to take some reasonable and moderate step about Europe it is quite possible that the die-hard battalion of death opposition to it might simmer down to McCormick and Brandegee. McCormick of course is in an especially strong position to assert party policy. Aside from his senatorship, he is an important man within the republican organization. He is chairman of the committee charged with laying down the policies and otherwise managing the party effort to elect republican senators this fall. Further than this, he is an able man who regards his position on public affairs with strong feeling and fights to the end.

It is not an unreasonable guess that if Europe makes it clear that she wants America to lead her out of the swamp and is willing to adopt the measures America proposes and to accept American help in the form in which America deems it wise to give it, America may take an affirmative step. If the step is guarded, as it will be, any opposition to it on the part of the irreconcilable senators probably wouldn't get very far.

It should be added that whatever America does about Europe will not include any cancellation of Europe's debts to America. That would be unwise, because the economic stability of the world is peculiarly involved in recognizing international obligations, not in cancelling them. If the western nations want Russia to acknowledge her obligations, it would be illogical to provide her with an example to the contrary.

AMICABLE RELATIONS MAINTAINED AT MINES LOCATED AT BRIDGEPORT

FORT WORTH, May 20—Amicable relations are being maintained between the miners and the Bridgeport Coal company under a tentative agreement, according to a statement here today by W. H. John, secretary-treasurer of the company commenting upon an attack upon the agreement at the miners' meeting at Muskogee yesterday.

Under the terms of the agreement, work is to go ahead on the present basis until the settlement of the wage controversy for the southwestern district, John said This he did not believe could be accomplished before July 1, he said.

While the company is not working to capacity, John explained this is due to slack demand

MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 20—The cotton market today opened barely steady at a decline of 4 to 17 points under a renewal of scattering liquidation prompted by reports of better weather in the south. There was also some scattered selling on a hope that crop prospects would improve before the end of May condition figures were made up, but trade interests were buyers at the decline to 20.08 for July and 19.89 for October This demand combined with covering for over the week-end gave the market a steady undertone while week-end reviews from cotton goods trade were considered favorable and propably had a sustaining influence Manchester advices say that more looms are running in Lancashire than for 18 months and predict that if present buying continues all machinery there will be active within five or six weeks.

The market weakened later in the morning owing to rumors that preliminary private returns pointed to a crop condition of around 73 8, which led to more general realizing or liquidation. July sold off from 20.17 to 19.87, and October from 19.98 to 19.75, or 20 to 33 points lower The market closed easy, net unchanged to 30 points lower, May being relatively firm

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—The report that about 3,000 bales were sold in the spot department here after hours yesterday, together with telegrams from Texas telling of a good spot demand put the cotton market higher by one to eight points around the opening today The advance was met by heavy week-end liquidation from the long side and the selling increased after the posting of the weather map which was called favorable because it indicated that little rain had fallen over the cotton region. At the end of the first hour prices were 22 to 26 points under yesterday's close with July off to 19.78 That position traded at 20 00 at its best

A private bureau report of 73 8 per cent of normal as the condition of the crop and four per cent as the increase in the acreage caused a recovery of about 15 points. The market became very active with liquidating longs just about satisfying the demand The close was at net losses of 12 to 13 points with July at 19.79

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, May 20.—Reports that the condition of the new crop in the southwest is not as favorable as expected gave the wheat market a rather bullish tinge here today. The May delivery which broke at the start soon recovered its loss on scattered buying.

It was estimated that arrivals here today were 225 cars, while the deliveries on May contracts this morning were reported as 430,000 bushels of wheat. May started ⅛ to 1⅛c lower at 1 48½ to 1 39 while the deferred deliveries varied from unchanged figures to ⅛c up, with July 1 24½ to 1.24⅝ The market underwent slight gains all around, then had somewhat of a setback

The May delivery continued under pressure and broke sharply toward the finish with the other deliveries moving in sympathy. The close was weak, ⅛ to 4⅞c net lower, with May $1.35½ to $1 36 and July $1.23⅝ to $1 23⅞.

Corn and oats were dull After starting unchanged to ⅛c higher, with July 64½ to 64⅝c, corn scored slight gains, then suffered a slight reaction

Later the corn market rallied somewhat on reports that rains were needed in parts of the corn belt and closed firm with values averaging ⅛ to ⅜c net higher with July 64½ to 64⅝c

Oats were unchanged to ⅛@⅜c higher, at the start with July 39⅜ to 39½@⅝c, and then eased off.

Provisions were higher in line with higher hogs.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Rails led today's brief but active stock market to higher levels. Coalers, transcontinentals, grangers and New Haven were one to three points higher. Oils also were favored, some of the foreign group as well as Sinclair, Producers and Refiners, Standard Oil of California and Texas-Gulf and Sulphur rising 1 to 1⅞ points Sugars enhanced recent gains by one or two points and automobile issues were prominent with further heavy accumulation of General Motors. Independent steels were irregular on latest development in connection with merger plans, Midvale falling two points. Textiles and metals improved but tobaccos were reactionary. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 500,000 shares.

NEW CAMPAIGN FOR FAIR ORGANIZATION TO START TUESDAY

A vigorous and determined renewal of the campaign to establish a great fair here will start Tuesday morning.

At a meeting Saturday morning of the fair committee of the chamber of commerce, it was decided that in view of improved conditions here and in consideration of the eceptional opportunity afforded to put the fair on a substantial basis from the start, no further time should be lost

A total of $70,000 in pledges was obtained in the former drive, $52,000 of this amount being payable in cash. The drive to start Tuesday will be to practically double that amount, giving $100,000 available in cash, which with the land subscription will permit a fair to be held next fall.

Fifty workers were appointed at Saturday's meeting, and these will be guests of W. F Weeks Monday night at supper at the Wichita club, at which time plans for an active campaign will be outlined. The workers will begin their drive Tuesday morning. Subscriptions will be taken on the same basis as formerly Present at Saturday morning's meeting were W. F. Weeks, committee chairman; N. B. Chenault, M J. Gardner, G. C. Wood, W. B. Pyron, C. H. Clark, R. O. Harvey, W. E. Norton, T. B. Noble, George Keith, Guy Jones and Hubert M. Harrison.

THREE DIRECTORS CHOSEN FRIDAY BY AUTO ASSOCIATION

E. V. Lesley Jr. of the Auto Tire Company of West Texas, George Parks of the Archenhold Supply company and F. D. Keim of the Excelsior Motor company were elected directors of the Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers association at the semi-monthly banquet held Friday night in the Kemp hotel. This election was held over from that of the last meeting, at which time new officers were chosen for 1922-23.

The meeting brought out another exceptionally large attendance and was productive of some interesting and instructive talks.

F. E. McCarty of the Nash-McLarty company, Dallas distributors of the Nash, was the principal speaker of the evening and told of the methods used successfully in Dallas in combatting the used car problem D. E. Renfro of the Renfro Refining company at Iowa Park spoke on lubricating problems in the automobile and P. B. Cox, local attorney, addressed the association briefly, complimenting the auto men of the city on the splendid co-operation they had shown in their own work and for the hearty manner in which they were always ready to aid any constructive civic program

A report by Julian McFall on the summer tourist camp site indicated that such a camp could soon be established

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Seated in Section 10, waiting for the porter to bring back his personal impediments from the Drawing room, Harry Lontaine turned a handsome face to the window, frowning absently, the nervous frown of a man whose cleverness has never proved quite equal to the task of satisfying appetites at once strong and fastidious.

From this delectable realm the dreamer was recalled by consciousness of somebody standing in the aisle and staring impertinently. Lontaine was too diligent a student of motion pictures not to know at sight the features of Lynn Summerlad, by long odds the most popular male star of the American cinema. A personage worth knowing * * *

Misreading his expression, Mr. Summerlad felt called upon to apologize.

"Beg your pardon, but I was expecting to find a lady in this section. I may say a friend: a Mrs. Druce. Do you by any chance—?"

Lynn Sumerland made a fourth at the bridge table set up that afternoon in the Lontaine drawing-room; invited by Lontaine as an acquaintance of Lucinda's, and a grateful addition to the party because he played something better than merely a good game.

Not only "fearfully easy to look at" (as Fanny confided to Lucinda) but fair spoken and well, if at time a shade carefully mannered, he was intelligent and ready of wit.

By nightfall of the second day it was possible for Lucindia to make up her mind that she liked Lynn Summerlad decidedly. True that he was not of her world; but then neither was she herself, any longer, in this anomalous stage of the apostate wife, neither wife nor widow, not even honest divorce.

If Summerlad's character as she read it had faults, if an occasional crudity flawed his finish, these things were held to be condonable in view of his youth. He seemed ridiculously young to Lucinda but sure to improve with age, sure to take on polish from rubbing up against life. Especially if he were so fortunate as to find the right woman to watch over and advise him. An interesting job, for the right woman * * *

Not (she assured herself hastily) that it would be a job to interest her. An absurd turn of thought, anyway. Why she had wasted time on it she rally didn't know. Unless, of course, its incentive had lain in consciousness of Summerlad's naive captivation. One couldn't very well overlook that. He was so artless about it, boyish, and—well—nice. It was most entertaining.

It was also, if truth would out, far from displeasing.

"I've got a great favor to beg of you Mr. Summerlad," said Lucinda as they sat alone—on the observation platform one evening.

"Can't make it too great—"

"Fanny and I were discussing it this morning. Bel—Mr. Druce—is sure to follow me to Los Angeles and make more scenes. I'd like to avoid that if I can. Help me choose a good, safe nom de guerre, please."

"Let's see; Mrs. Lontaine calls you Cindy * * *

"Short for Lucinda."

"How about Lee? Lucinda Lee?"

"I like that. But it does sound like the movies, doesn't it?"

"What do you expect of a movie acter, Mrs. Druce?

"Mrs. Lee, please."

"Beg pardon: Mrs. Lee."

And it was as Lucinda Lee that she registered the next morning at the Hotel Alexandria in Los Angeles.

On the afternoon of their arrival, Lucinda, accompanied by Summerlad and the Lontaines drove to the Zinn studios, where the famous pictures were taken.

The working premises lay behind the administration building. But here Lucinda noted few points of close resemblance to the Culp studios. A field several acres in extent, about half in turf, was surrounded by a sizable village of glass-roofed stages and structures housing the technical and mechanical department—a laboratory, a costumer's, property, carpenter, and scene-painting shops, director's offices, dressing, projection and cutting rooms, a garage, sheds to shelter motor cars and trucks by the score, stables, a small menagerie, a huge tank for "water stuff," a monolithic firefroof vault of cement for the storage of film.

"Well, Mrs. Lee: what do you think of a California studio? Not much like what you've seen back east, eh?"

"It is most marvelous. If they're all like this, I don't wonder people are mad to act in motion pictures. If Mr. Culp had promised me anything like this, I don't believe I should have had the courage to refuse."

"It is not too late to change your mind, Mrs. Lee." Lontaine suggested. "In fact, if I thought there was any hope you would, I'd go down on my knees to you. Oh, not to act for Culp, but for me; or rather, for yourself, as the head and the star of your own company. No: I'm serious. I've been talking with several people today who want me to try producing out here. I can get unlimited capital to back me. This country is crying for better pictures—and I know how to make them. I can bring the one thing it needs, a thorough knowledge of European methods. There's only one thing makes me hesitate, the lack of a suitable star."

"Why pick on me?" Lucinda laughed. "I'm not even an actress."

"Ah! you forget I've seen you prove on the screen what you can do. You need only two things to make you great, a good director, and self-confidence."

"Aren't you running a great risk, making such flattering overtures to an untried, unknown amateur?"

"Don't worry about me. If I had any hope of being able to persuade you to try it on, I'd tell you to name your own terms, and shoulder the risk without a murmur."

Lontaine's earnestness was so real than one might no longer meet his arguments with levity. There was a strained look of anxiety in the blue eyes, a restrained passion of pleading in the ordinary languid accents.

Fanny, too, was apparently hanging between hope and fear * * *

And the thought revived that had once or twice presented itself, the suspicion that all was not as well as one might wish with the state of the Lontaine fortunes, strengthening the surmise that Lucinda's decision meant more to them both than Lontaine had confessed.

Still one hesitated to believe * * *

"But you can't be serious! Do you really want me to become a movie actress under your management?"

"You can't think of anything I wouldn't do to persuade you."

"Why not, Mrs. Lee?" Summerlad urged. "It would be great fun for you; and you can't fail, you can't lose anything. If you only knew how inferior most stars are to you in every way * * *"

"And if you should fail, Cindy," Fanny chimed in—"what does it matter? Who would know? It wouldn't be you, it would be Lucinda Lee!"

"No," Lontaine insisted: "I've got a better screen name than that for her. Not Lucinda: Linda Lee."

"Come, Mrs. Lee: say you'll try it on, if only for the lark of it."

"If I should, Mr. Summerlad, it wouldn't be for fun."

"So much the better."

"Then you will?" Lontaine persisted. "Do say yes."

"Let me think * * *"

And why not? Lucinda asked herself. She was alone in the world, lonely but for these good friends who needed her help, or seemed to. It would be good fun, it would be interesting, it would satisfy a need of which she had been discontentedly aware even in the days when she had yet to dream of leaving Bel. And—even as Fanny had argued—if she should fail and have to give it up, who would care what had become of "Linda Lee?"

"Very well," she said at length, with an uncertain smile—"suppose we try."

XVII

"To tomorrow's morning star of the screen, Linda Lee!"

Thus Lynn Summerlad, mildly exalted, graceful and gracious even beyond his studied habit, flourishing a glass of California champagne above the dinner table in his bungalow at Beverly Hills.

The toast went by acclamation, and Lucinda laughed, at once gratified, diverted, and disposed to deprecate the spirit of these felicitations as premature.

A phrase of Culp's recurred unbidden: "A lot of kids, that's what we got to make pictures with, a lot of kids."

It was childish, in a way; on the other hand, it was undeniably pleasant to think of oneself as a sort of Sleeping Beauty of the screen only waiting to be awakened to vivid life by one wave of the witching wand and self-confidence.

Summerlad had been talking of his early screen experiences and flashed an apologetic smile. "One of the worst faults we movie actors have, Mrs. Lee, is talking about our salaries. So I won't say any more than this: outside of the Big Four—Mary and Doug and Charlie and Bill Hart—there's mighty few that drag down as much green money a week as I do."

"I'm glad to absolve you of the sin of boasting, Mr. Summerlad."

"I suppose that did sound funny. * * * You wouldn't guess who the director was who gave me my first engagement: Barry Nolan!"

The name was apparently known to Lontaine, for he exclaimed "You don't mean it!" as if no more exciting information had come to his ears in many days.

Read what Mrs. Lucas Writes Concerning Her Troubles, which May be Just Like Yours

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 719A Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give it a fair trial now.
